Oil edged up after a surprise from Saudi Arabia on Friday: a pledge of deeper production cuts that sent futures surging for their best week since June.

In addition to deeper collective cuts by the OPEC+ alliance led by Saudi Arabia and Russia, the kingdom will continue a voluntary reduction of 400,000 barrels a day below its official target, the prince said.

Money managers' WTI net-long position dropped to 150,311 futures and options during the week ended Dec. 3, the U.S. CFTC said.

Meanwhile, there was more gloom on the demand side withdata showing Chinese exports fell unexpectedly in November.

Natural gas futures headed for the biggest two-day drop since January amid forecasts for warmer-than-normal weather in the U.S. South, which could cut demand for the heating fuel during the winter season.

Energy Outlook

Crude oil prices are trading lower for the day. We expect oil prices to trade with negative bias after the OPEC meeting and as weak economic data release from China amid concerns over trade deal. One can maintain sell on rise strategy in Crudeoil for the day. We have no economic data to be released in the evening session.
