Precious Metals News

Gold prices rose after U.S. Federal Reserve Chairman Jerome Powell pledged more stimulus measures if required to ease the economic blow from the coronavirus.

Powell said the United States could face an "extended period" of weak growth and stagnant incomes and issued a call for more fiscal spending.

Gold prices dropped from their daily highs on Powell's rejection of the possibility of negative interest rates. President Trump tweeted Tuesday he would be in favor of such occurring..

The continuos safe-haven buying in the precious metals is due to elevated uncertainty regarding how and for how long the Covid-19 pandemic will ultimately impact the global economy.

More than 4.28 million people have been infected worldwide, while more than 82,000 deaths have been reported from the United States alone.

The U.S. economy has lost a staggering 20.5 million jobs in April alone, as citizens were compelled to stay home and businesses closed .

Precious Metal Outlook

Precious metals are trading higher in the morning trade. We expect prices to trade sideways to positive after Fed affirmed more stimulus if required and so it's possible we could see additional quantitative easing or continued policies along with record lower interest rates for the foreseeable future providing a favourable backdrop for gold prices.
