Base metal prices mixed as a bit of a correction today in base metals with some profit-taking coming in across Chinese stock markets amid heightened Sino-U.S. tensions after Pompeo's comments

The physical premium in China has risen this week, suggesting this is a short-term correction as demand remains firm and the concerns about disruption in Chile are real

Supervisors at Antofagasta Minerals' Centinela copper mine in Chile have voted in favor of strike action, pending mediation.

China's June unwrought copper imports hit a record on strong domestic demand, scrap shortages and open import arbitrage window.

The Chinese alumina price rose to its highest level in four months on Thursday July 9, supported by a strong aluminium futures price on the Shanghai Futures Exchange.

The US dollar edged lower, while stocks on Wall Street traded mixed as investors looked to domestic corporate earnings and upcoming data to gauge whether guarded optimism on the country's economic outlook is justified.

Base Metal Outlook

Base metals are trading lower today. We expect prices to trade sideways to positive as some profit taking after China's imports rose as demand for commodities surged on the back of government stimulus, while exports also rose in a sign the recovery is gaining traction. One can main maintain buy on dips in Copper and sell on rise in Nickel for the day.
